Clinical Trials FAQ

Patients often hear the words clinical trial and don't know what to expect or sometimes even what a clinical trial is. GO2 Foundation has put together a list of frequently asked questions surrounding clinical trials for you to have a better understanding of how clinical trials relate to your treatment journey.

Lung Cancer: No Silly Questions

A lung cancer diagnosis can be physically, mentally, and emotionally draining. One thing you should never worry about is asking your doctor or treatment team questions. You may feel like questions running through your head should be common sense or might be assumed—but rest assured knowing that the only silly cancer question is the one that isn't asked. Plus, there's a good chance that others are wondering the same thing.

Lacing Up for Lungs

Meet Sarah Evans (and her mom Isabelle). In 2021, Sarah teamed up with GO2 Foundation for Lung Cancer. As part of the GO2 Foundation Endurance Team, she raised awareness and much-needed funds to help improve lung cancer survival. We talked to Evans about her passion for running, raising money for lung cancer, and what advice she has for others who might want to fundraise for the cause.
