The Power of Lung Cancer Research

Jill Feldman is passionate about advocating for lung cancer research. A mother of 4 young children, she was diagnosed at age 39 with EGFR positive lung cancer. She is the fifth member of her immediate family to have lung cancer, having lost two grandparents (on different sides of the family), both her parents, and an aunt to the disease. When the Addario Lung Cancer Medical Institute and GO2 Foundation launched the Epidemiology of Young Lung Cancer study, Feldman jumped at the chance to participate.

The 2021 World Conference on Lung Cancer

This month, the GO2 Foundation team virtually attended IASLC's 2021 World Conference on Lung Cancer. Our team presented on hot topics in the field alongside top clinicians, researchers, and scientists from across the world. We're here to share some of the key takeaways from the conference and what they mean for the lung cancer community.

You're Invited: The New Lung Cancer Living Room

Every month our Lung Cancer Living Room Series brings hope home to people with lung cancer and their families around the world. Anyone who has attended the event, whether in-person or virtually, knows that this is far from your average support group. Started by our co-founder and board chair Bonnie Addario after her own stage 3B lung cancer diagnosis, the Living Room has provided a warm, welcoming space for anyone impacted by lung cancer to find empowerment and support for over a decade.

Ways to Shine A Light on Lung Cancer

Shine a Light on Lung Cancer is the largest coordinated lung cancer awareness program in the United States. Hosted by healthcare facilities during Lung Cancer Awareness Month, Shine a Light on Lung Cancer educates, connects, and celebrates our community while raising awareness about the disease. In light of the pandemic, Shine a Light on Lung Cancer has pivoted from traditional, in-person events, to Making the Shine A Light Promise, meaning you can raise awareness as safely as possible to suit the needs of your community.
