Living Room Recap – Options and Next Steps If Your Lung Cancer Becomes Resistant to Your Course of Treatment

What happens when your cancer becomes resistant to your course of treatment and progresses? That's the question we explored in the September episode of our Lung Cancer Living Room series.

Dr. David Gandara, professor emeritus and co-director of UC Davis Comprehensive Cancer Center's Center for Experimental Therapeutics, discussed a number of options. The good news is that it turns out there's a lot that can be done if your cancer becomes resistant to its current targeted therapy or immunotherapy. Learn more in our recap article.
